No Right to Choose? Last month, South Dakota signed into law the country's most restrictive abortion ban, outlawing abortions in almost all cases, including rape, incest and to protect the mother's health. NOW examines how anti-abortion activists have a much broader agenda, targeting sex education, contraception, and even the intimate personal decisions of young men and women. When is it appropriate for personal morality to become government policy?

America's aging baby boomers are headed for a shock as they near retirement. In addition to Social Security, the pillars of retirement income for Americans have been either lifetime corporate pensions or employee-contribution plans such as 401Ks. But both retirement strategies are in trouble. Buffeted by pension cuts, corporate bankruptcies, and the 2001-2002 stock market crash, most boomers now expect to be working into their retirement years.

Although the financial markets will be closed on Monday, May 29, 2006, for Memorial Day, Nightly Business Report and Nightly Business Report News Brief will be fed as usual. Nightly Business Report will broadcast a holiday special called, "Work in Progress." Instead of minding machines, as our mothers and fathers did, American workers are now challenged to master increasing sophisticated technologies. It's no longer enough to just follow instructions, "problem solving" is now a job requirement. At the same time, our country is undergoing a dramatic demographic shift from an older workforce, to one dominated by younger, minority workers. Despite this wave of change, the average level of formal education in our workforce is the same as it was 25 years ago. By most measures, income inequality is growing and workers are taking on more economic risk on the job. In many ways, the nation is unprepared for the challenges of the changing workplace.

Length: 90
Airdate: 5/10/2006 8:00:00 PM/502
Service: PBS
Segment Length: 01:26:46

John Ford is considered by many the greatest American director, the winner of six Academy Awards, more than any director before or since. John Wayne is the actor whom he transformed from a B-western cowboy into a larger-than-life national icon. Their friendship and professional collaboration spanned 50 years, changed each other's lives, changed the movies and, in the process, changed how America saw itself. Their remarkable body of work - including Stagecoach, Fort Apache, She Wore a Yellow Ribbon, Rio Grande, The Searchers, The Horse Soldiers and The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance - is heroic and nostalgic, reflecting all the elements and all the paradoxes in 20th century America: generosity of spirit, abuse of power, a sense of loyalty and a new, restless nationalism.

"In Your Eyes": Musician and human rights activist Peter Gabriel is empowering people to document human rights abuses in their own backyards and bring them to the world's attention. His organization, Witness, is based in Brooklyn, but has electronic eyes all over the world, acting under the motto "see it, film it, change it." Gabriel opens up to David Brancaccio about his horror at abuses as far away as Burma and as close as California, and how his efforts have led to real change. "I think it appalls you at first when you start seeing what people actually do in the world. But I find some of the people you meet, that are fighting the abuses, extraordinary," says Gabriel.

As global warming turns up the heat, researchers are stunned to discover that our sun is actually growing dimmer. Increasing air pollution allows less and less sunlight to reach earth's surface, a 'global dimming' that disturbs rainfall patterns and is creates severe droughts. In an even more alarming twist, there is concern that recent success in solving the dimming problem is greatly accelerating global warming, melting ice caps and flooding coastal cities. NOVA examines a baffling climate conundrum and follows the disturbing implications of the discovery for our planet's future.

Joseph Goebbels was the Nazi propaganda mastermind who helped launch Hitler's rise to power. A twentieth-century icon of maniacal cruelty, his name is synonymous with cynical, unscrupulous and, at times, successful propaganda. In this AMERICAN EXPERIENCE production Goebbels speaks for himself through the film's only narration: voice-over readings of his personal diaries by actor Kenneth Brannagh. Rare historical footage from German archives traces the life of the second most powerful man in the Third Reich, detailing his initial attraction to the Nazi party and his adoration of Hitler. The film offers a chilling glimpse into Goebbels' brilliant but disturbing mind, revealing how he continually stage managed his life and reinvented himself - from his early days as a radical "popular socialist" to his tragic end. The result is a fascinating psychological portrait of a man who careened extravagantly between self-pity, wild extermination fantasies and political excesses.

In 1926, just a few months before her death, Will Rogers described Annie Oakley as "the greatest woman rifle shot the world has ever produced." As the star attraction of Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show, she thrilled audiences around the world with her daring shooting feats and her act helped fuel turn-of-the-century nostalgia for the vanished, mythical world of the American West. Over time she became an American legend-the loud, brassy, cocksure shooter celebrated in the musical "Annie Get Your Gun." But that legend had little to do with the real Annie Oakley. Although famous as a Western sharpshooter, Oakley lived her entire life east of the Mississippi. A champion in a man's sport, she forever changed ideas about the abilities of women, yet she opposed female suffrage. Her fame and fortune came from her skill with guns, yet she was a Quaker. This probing AMERICAN EXPERIENCE production examines the dramatic life of a uniquely American icon whose complex character manifested many of the paradoxes of the nation.

An intriguing story about the lives and times of Lise Meitner and Otto Hahn, two remarkable scientists whose extraordinary collaboration culminated in the discovery of nuclear fission in 1938, turning Einstein's "theory" into atomic science. Not only did these two revolutionize the history of science and the role of women in physics and chemistry, their tale also parallels the social changes and turbulent history of their times. It involves the war against memory, Nazi intimidation, forced exile, betrayal, and a Nobel Prize awarded only in chemistry that to this day distorts science history. This documentary explores the development of atomic science in the first part of the twentieth century. It captures Meitner's efforts to make her way in the male-dominated world of physics, Hahn's early work and independent discoveries, their collaboration, the racial and political discrimination that forced Meitner to live in exile, and ongoing speculation about her exclusion from the Nobel Prize. These elements are explored through photos, letters, notes, stock footage, and maps; interviews with writers, scientists, and historians; and music of the day. Sound effects and animated
